Privacy Commissioner Ann Cavoukian and HP meeting with leaders from the health sector

TORONTO – Ontario Information and Privacy Commissioner Ann Cavoukian and senior officials from Hewlett-Packard Canada are meeting with approximately 100 professionals from Ontario's health and technology sectors Wednesday morning (March 5) to discuss a joint paper released by the Commissioner and HP, RFID and Privacy: Guidance for Health-Care Providers.

The paper cuts through the mists of uncertainty over the potential application of RFID technology in the health sector and the privacy implications of its uses.

The event includes presentations by the Commissioner and HP, a panel discussion and a question and answer session.
